ADD MY SUPPORT

3. That little gray box above the blue graphic? You can add a customized message if you want (but you don't have to). Please note that if you elect to type a message in that first text box, anyone clicking on the graphic will be taken to www.healthcare.gov instead of to the Thunderclap.

4. Then, click ADD MY SUPPORT (that red bar at the bottom) and you'll see a confirmation that you've supported the effort on your Facebook page and how many of your followers will see this post on the scheduled date. Before closing out of this screen, click on the Facebook "Share" link so that a post linking to the Thunderclap will appear on your Facebook feed.

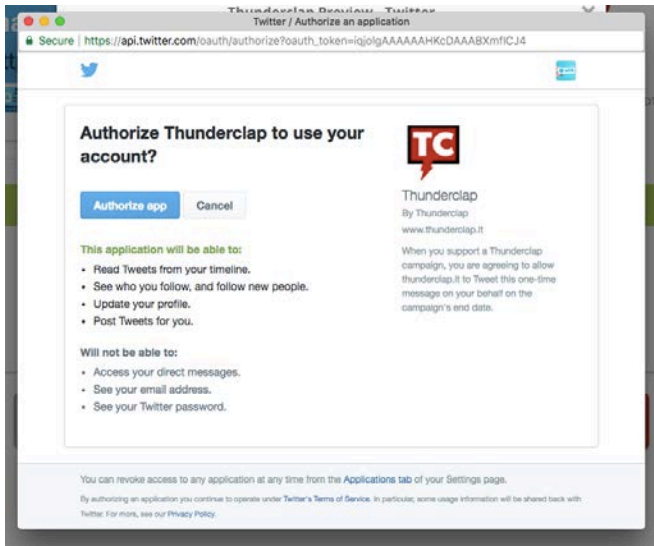

5. X out of that window, and you're brought back to the original screen, where you're given the option to support the effort by Twitter or Tumblr. (Facebook is greyed out, because you already successfully supported the Facebook effort):

6. And once you've clicked on the red TWITTER button, you find yourself HERE. You can customize the message if you want, and then click ADD MY SUPPORT:

7. For Twitter, there is an additional box asking for your permission. Click on AUTHORIZE APP:

8. Success! Now you'll see how many of your people will see your message on Twitter:

9. If you have a Tumblr account, you'll X out of the window above, and go back to the main screen. FACEBOOK and TWITTER will be greyed out; TUMBLR will be red. You'll know what to do next!
